

I don't think this is a very good idea, one company could obtain a strangle-hold on the information that a city, state, or even the country received. Competition helps breed competence